

Charity

art auction

TWENTY contemporary South African artists will take part in a charity gala art auction on Sunday.

The auction will be one of the highlights of Cape Town celebrations to mark the Golden Jubilee of the State of Israel. Proceeds will go to the humanitarian needs of Jewish communities worldwide.

Many of the artists have created works especially for the auction and Cecil Skotnes, who is the guest of honour, has donated one of his works.

The other artists include Arlene Amaler-Raviv, Wendy Anziska, Tyrone Appollis, Beezy Bailey, Reggi bar David, Robin Cohen, Jean Doyle, Lorraine Edelstein, Barbara Friedman, Alice Goldin, Barbara Jackson, Louis Jansen van Vuuren, Romy Modlin, Francine Scialom-Greenblatt, Eris Silke, John Skotnes, Pieter van der Westhuizen, Jan Vermeiren and Gavin Young.

Louis Jansen van Vuuren has created a work entitled Let there be light, which was inspired by his visit to Israel during the festival of lights. Auctioneer Rael Levitt, of Seeff Auctions, hopes the work will fetch at least R10 500.

The auction will take place at the Good Hope Gallery at the Castle of Good Hope from 6pm on Sunday. The works are on view daily from 10am-4pm.

Tickets at R75 are available from Mercia Streiman at (021) 434-0933 or 083-261-1736.

CHARITY ART: Artist Louis Jansen van Vuuren with art auction convenor Sue Lipshitz getting ready to hang one of his paintings.